

The Eminent Kidney and Bladder Specialist.

The Discoverer of Swamp-Root at Work in His Laboratory.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because it is so common. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell. Then the richness of the blood—the albumen—leaks out and the sufferer has Bright's Disease, the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Klinger's Swamp-Root is the new discovery is the true specific for kidney, bladder and urinary troubles. It has cured thousands of apparently hopeless cases, after all other efforts have failed. At drug stores in fifty-cent and dollar sizes. A sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling about Swamp-Root and its wonderful cures. Address Dr. Klinger & Co., Birmingham, N. Y., and mention this paper.

A Talk About Roads.

Cat Ridge, Ky.
Mr. Editor:—The small child, the society woman, those least experienced, will detect the presence of a good road; yet they cannot give a single substance or mode of construction. In fact the conditions necessary for a good road are very little understood.

The first important step in road making is the location. This involves a consideration of their alignment and their grades, and although these subjects are both of vital importance they are seldom properly understood or considered in determining the location of public highways. The subsequent value of a road as a public highway and means for transportation will depend largely upon the judicious and proper location of it with reference to its alignments and grades.

The grades of a road will not only directly limit the speed of travel and the magnitude of the loads that can be handled over it when in a given condition, but by influencing the conditions relating to drainage, they will indirectly and to no inconsiderable extent effect the conditions of the roadway also. A road properly constructed and maintained, will be to a large extent good or bad according as its grades are favorable or unfavorable. Therefore, the grades should be the paramount consideration in the location of a road.

Many of our present county roads are but the old "cut-outs" from settlement to settlement in the pioneer days, and the construction of these into roadways were of necessity as the country developed.

Miles and miles have since been located around steep hills, over rocky points and across hollows, through branches and across creek all to the satisfaction of the land owners and citizens along the route, regardless of the oath of the voters.

But, friends, charity is the greatest virtue, and we must judge men in the age in which they lived; and as we have now passed the age of the horse mill, the old flint lock, pit-saws and shooting-matches, pack saddles and slides, we are expecting better things. Conditions are entirely different now and the public have a right to expect that advanced progress in their public highways that is manifest in other public enterprises.

In the location and construction of the public highways at the present day we have attained more modern ideas, yet we are not perfect by a large per cent. Much of the trouble lies with the court in appointing men to view roads. As a rule these men are not engineers. They neither understand nor appreciate the engineering features involved. Neither have they the moral courage to go up against the wishes of a neighbor in a contract for what is right. They seem to think that all essential conditions are fulfilled if the road is reasonably direct between terminal points and location in such a position as to be satisfactory to the property along the route.

The value of country property is affected to no inconsiderable extent by the condition of the roads leading to the market towns, and it is greatly to the interest of property owners that these roads be constructed and maintained in the best manner consistent with a reasonable expenditure. This end can be attained only by good engineering in the location and construction and by intelligent supervision in the maintenance.

Mines are running almost full time, with a solid union force of workmen. All men in and around the mines belong to the Union Mine Workers, and those applying for work must have a Union card or agree to join the U. M. W. of A. before they can get employment from the Peach Orchard Coal Co. The best of harmony prevails between the Union miners and O. P. Chatfield, general manager for the above Co. We organized here in July, and from the start have had nothing but peace and harmony with our Union and the men in charge of the company's business at this place; so we claim there is no use for trouble between trade unions and honest employers.

We had our first visit from candidates on the 15th. R. F. Vinson and Thos. Moore were both shaking hands with us the same evening. It was the first time the writer had ever met either Mr. Vinson or Mr. Moore, the opposing candidates for County Judge. Mr. Moore is a nice looking man and a gentleman so far as we know, but in the face of "Uncle Dick Vinson" we seemed to see honesty, grit and will power to be a Judge for all the County, regardless of politics, religion, or conditions in life. So we concluded to cast our vote for him. Mr. Roberts, candidate for Sheriff, was also with us on the 15th. But we have known Jesse Cordle from boyhood and have made up our mind to vote for him. J. STOPS PAIN

After, Tenn., Jan. 27, 1901.
Ever since the first appearance of my disease they were very irregular and I suffered with great pain in my hips, back, stomach and legs, with terrible bearing down pains in the abdomen. During the past month I have been taking Wine of Cardui and the result is that I am now free from all the above troubles and feel as well as I ever did.

NANCY DAVIS.

What is life worth to a woman suffering like Nannie Davis suffered? Yet there are women in thousands of homes to-day who are bearing these terrible menstrual pains in silence. If you are one of these we want to say that this same

OBITUARY

Miss Daisy Belle Lakin was born at Zella, Lawrence county, Ky., May 16th, 1876, and departed this life Oct. 16th, 1901.

Miss Belle was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Lakin, and was a bright, cheerful young lady, spreading sunshine wherever she was. She had many friends and likely no enemies. She was a victim of typhoid fever from which she was a great sufferer until death released her. Everything that was possible was done to stay the disease, but it was of no avail, and on Wednesday Oct. 16th, at 1:40 p. m. her spirit took its flight into the great beyond, surrounded by many who loved her.

Several years ago, having professed saving faith in Christ, she united with the M. E. Church, South, in which she was a loved and faithful member. On being questioned as to her faith just before the end came she expressed as being entirely submissive to the divine will, and said she could hear them singing the beautiful hymn, "Oh Happy Day." The funeral services were conducted by Rev. C. Dean. May the entire family so live as to meet Belle in the Father's home.
